

Dawn of a New Day Memory Care

Unique to Eskaton is our Well-Being philosophy which expands the possibilities for people living well with cognitive change. We embrace a social model of living that supports a positive, proactive, and collaborative approach.

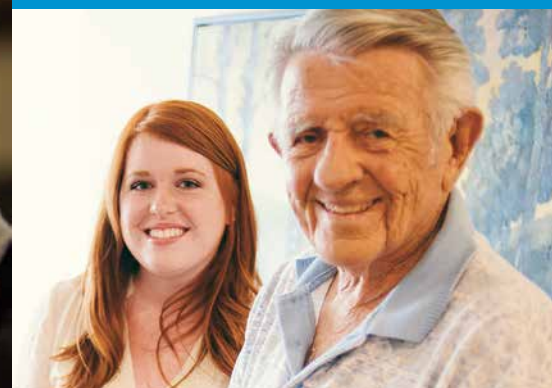

We believe in

- Discovering what makes each resident who they are
- Ensuring residents are surrounded by people whom they trust and feel connected
- Providing daily activities that are meaningful and purposeful
- Making certain life is celebrated and that every resident feels surrounded by love and happiness

Eskaton's Well-Being Academy is a 16-hour comprehensive educational training program for all employees. We believe that the primary role of each employee (care partner) is to support and understand the changing needs of residents. A care partnership includes the residents themselves, family members, and staff because we are mutually responsible for supporting the well-being of those who live in the community.

Dawn of a New Day Memory Care

Residents enjoy the intimacy of private or semi-private rooms, along with the benefits of the social atmosphere of the common living room, dining area, recreation room and courtyards. Social interaction is one of the benefits of community living and residents enjoy the opportunity to experience the world through art, music, gardening, fitness classes, intergenerational programs, and interactions with nature and pets.

Select Eskaton communities also offer Dayspring, a special transitional neighborhood that supports residents who are beginning to experience cognitive change. This unique program offers an adaptive environment that supports the independence of residents as they are living with forgetfulness and changing cognitive abilities.
